  - Engaging turn-based combat system.

Long ago, Nerfelo was once a bountiful and thriving world that has remained at peace for hundreds of years. All was beautiful and intact. Peace and tranquility flourished throughout the land. It was heaven. Unfortunately, that only remained until one day when the great Garfarian Empire came and pillaged the land. In the wake of war, hope was dwindling and all was thought to be lost. The allied Kingdoms of Kessania and Inelda are all that are left to stand in the Garfarian's way. That is, until a rebel group calling themselves the Shelminai emerged.

Felm Heisen

Felm is the respectable leader of the Shelminai and son of Marclex, a war hero from a shattered past. He seeks to stop the Garian empire and rid the world of injustice all while trying to track down his father's killer.

Momo Amoichi

Momo is a benevolent Priestess and sister to Felm. She uses her kind heart and soft-spoken words to help heal the ailing hearts of all she comes across.

A Pretty decent tactical RPG based on Fire Emblem, which is kinda it strength but also the most annoying part of it.

The only thing i do not like in Fire emblem is the uses of a weapon, i know it is "durability" but there are no ways to repair a weapon, and powerful weapons can be destroyed in 6 uses is kinda meh. But the story is decent, but if you like me find the freaking "durability" to be annoying, dont bother, you find powerful weapons that can be used 3-6 times and saving these weapons to the very last minute tends to be boring. But if you are a true Fire emblem fan then you should get this title.. If you're really looking for some fire emblem action, I suppose this can satisfy. Its an indie RPG maker game, so I went into it with amateur level expectations. I was ok with everything until the story seemed to stop, and the game turned into a, "Choose your own map to fight on" type of game with no rhyme or reason why you're there. I'm not really interested in that. For this price, I expect a little bit better.. if you love fire emblem then your really going to enjoy this game
